Catholic Charismatic Movement
The themes of the Spiritual Exercises come up repeatedly in Pope Francis:

- knowing oneself as a sinner embraced by God's merciful love
- discernment in decision-making
- finding God in all things
- life as a pilgrimage with the people of God
A Big Heart Open to God

The exclusive interview with Pope Francis

Editor’s Note: This interview with Pope Francis took place over the course of three meetings during August 2013 in Rome. The interview was conducted in person by Antonio Spadaro, S.J., editor-in-chief of La Civilta Cattolica, the Italian Jesuit journal. Father Spadaro conducted the interview on behalf of La Civilta Cattolica, America and several other major Jesuit journals around the world. The editorial teams at each of the journals prepared questions and sent them to Father Spadaro, who then consolidated and organized them. The interview was conducted in Italian. After the Italian text was officially approved, America commissioned a team of five independent experts to translate it into English. America is solely responsible for the accuracy of this translation. This interview is copyrighted by America Press and cannot be used, except for brief quotations, without written permission.

UPDATE (Sept. 30): The following is the translation of the complete text of the original Italian, which was edited for length in the print edition of America dated Sept. 30, 2013.
The medium IS the message.

First Apostolic Exhortation of Pope Francis

“The promise was that when the glass was full, it would overflow, benefitting the poor. But what happens instead, is that when the glass is full, it magically gets bigger -- nothing ever comes out for the poor.”

Reformation of the Curia
An interview about disagreements after Cardinal Kasper’s address with the Curia:

"I would have been worried if there had not been intense discussions in the consistory, it would have been useless...The cardinals knew they could say whatever they wanted. Fraternal and open discussion help develop theological and pastoral thinking...I'm not afraid of this. On the contrary, I seek it."
